

HEADS OR TAILS

England or Italy?

England for my roots. Italy for my style.

Silk sheets or flannel sheets?

Silk

One pillow or two?

One

Newspaper or magazine?

Magazine

Roomy or cozy?

Roomy with a cozy feel

Café or nightclub?

Café inside a nightclub

Dragons or unicorns?

Dragons

Roses or wildflowers?

Roses

The Beatles or The Who?

Don't tell Roger, but The Beatles.

Superman or Batman?

Batman

Lord of the Rings or Star Wars?

Lord of the Rings

Sophia Loren or Marilyn Monroe?

Sophia Loren

Brown eyes or blue eyes?

Or green eyes?

Green eyes! No, blue eyes.

No. No, wait. Aahh, yes. Brown eyes, definitely...I think.

Paintings or photographs?

Paintings

VIDEO UPDATES

Now available through Amazon.com and other outlets: Code Hunter

Previously available only from the Highlander Store, Highlander: The Series, Season One is now available on DVD in new, sturdier packaging from Amazon.com, Suncoast.com and retail outlets.

TRACKER TIDBITS

Congratulations to the sound crew of Tracker! Their work on the pilot episode has been nominated for a Gemini Award for Sound in a Dramatic Series. The Gemini Awards - Canada's equivalent of the U.S.'s Emmy Awards - will be presented on November 4, 2002. Check their website for a list of winners.
www.geminiawards.com

The Sci-Fi Channel will begin airing Tracker reruns sometime after the first of the year. Check www.scifi.com for further information.

A WATCHER'S WEEKEND

Compiled from reports by Denise Brook and Fran Ireland

We all know that Duncan MacLeod was born in 1592 in the village of Glenfinnan, on the shores of Loch Shiel in the Highlands of Scotland. But we all can't say we've been there.

In June, an adventurous band of 11 Highlander fans recreated Duncan's journey home from the legendary episode "Homeland." Of course they didn't have Adrian Paul to direct them, and no one reported fighting any Vikings.

The Watchers are a group of Adrian Paul fans who meet at least once a year to discuss his career and share tapes of his film and television appearances. They also take advantage of their time together to raise money for charities.

Fort William, Scotland, was the destination for this year's seventh annual Watchers Weekend. Just like last year's trip to Paris, the group wanted to see as many Highlander locations as possible. They arrived at their log cabins on Saturday afternoon with pizza, wine and Tracker episodes. Fran Ireland held an auction that raised £294 for the PEACE Fund and Go Gambia (<http://gogambia.org.uk>), a new charity that Denise Brook, Jeanette Cliff, Dawn Hill Willis and Suzanne Nye walked 50 miles from London to Brighton for this summer. Go Gambia helps impoverished families throughout the UK. The Watchers watched "Homeland" and grabbed a good night's sleep in preparation for the busy days ahead.

After a hearty Sunday morning breakfast, the group set off for Glenfinnan to visit the Highlander monument. The visitors' center proved a fun escape from the rain and swarms of pesky midges, just like the ones seen feasting on Adrian and Jim Byrnes in "Homeland." After looking out over Loch Shiel and the countryside from atop the monument, some of the Watchers couldn't

